45c Australian Active Service Medal, Korea Medal, UN Korea Medal

The stamp issue, commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Korean war, is being released to coincide with the dedication of the new Australian National Korean War Memorial in Canberra. The issue honours members of the Royal Australian Navy, the Royal Australian Air Force and Three Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment, each of which represented Australia in the Korean War as part of a Commonwealth contingent. The Korean peninsula had been politically divided since the end of World War II, when the former Japanese colony was split into North and South Korea. This division was formalised in 1948. The Korean War began on 25 June 1950, when communist North Korea crossed the 38th parallel to invade South Korea. The armistice concluded at Panmunjom on 27 July 1953, dividing Korea along the 38th parallel, essentially identical to the pre-war border. The design features the relevant Australian, Commonwealth and United Nations Korean service medals – Australian Active Service Medal 1945-75, The Korea Medal (a British Commonwealth decoration) and the United Nations Service Medal (Korea) – against a photograph of the Korean landscape taken at the 38th parallel. The gutter strip features the medals and typography. The stamp is designed by Brian Sadgrove, one of Melbourne's most experienced graphic designers and a veteran stamp designer.
